RED PINCERS

DNIPEP

BY JAMES M. LONG

London, Tuesday, Nov. 30 (AP)—Russian troops lunging in a pincer upon Zhitomir, the old fortress guarding the Nazis' Gomel escape gap—separated to within 12 miles of the city from the south Monday, and seized 40 villages in a battering offensive from the west, the Soviets announced early today.

One spearhead of Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's formations plunged within 25 miles of Bobruisk, northwest of Zhitomir, on the same Gomel-Minsk railroad, Moscow declared.

Enemy Near Disaster

The Soviet smashes thus stabbed closer to the supply system of the whole southern White Russia line, pushing the retreating Germans nearer to the old Polish frontier and new disaster. Eight hundred Nazis were killed yesterday in fierce fighting in this area, said the Moscow communique recorded by the Soviet radio monitor from a broadcast.

Exploding a renewed charge into the Dnieper bend, some 220 miles to the south, other Red armies wiped out 1,500 Germans and plunged eight miles west of Cherkassy, on the west bank of the Dnieper between "Kiev and Kremenchuk," the war bulletin declared.

In the Kiev salient, 900 Germans were reported killed and 56 tanks wrecked as Soviet forces threw back heavy new Nazi assaults north and east of Zhitomir in the Chernyakhov and Brusilov areas, and Red army planes struck heavily at German armored concentrations.

Many Prisoners Taken

Gen. Rokossovsky hit a new blow from the south seeking to topple Zhitomir, seizing Strishyn only 12 miles below Zhitomir, and taking seven other villages between the Berezhna and Dnieper rivers.

The Germans fought in vain from fortified points seeking to stem the push northwest of Gomel, which menaces Zhitomir from the east and southeast, the communique said. Many prisoners, including one entire German company, were taken as the pincers closed in upon the city astride the Gomel-Minsk and the Leningrad-Odessa railroads.

Along the lower Pripiet river, the Soviets were said to have killed a battalion of Nazis and captured more than 100 cars of grain plundered from the people.

Heavy clashes by Soviet airplanes bled Nazi armored strength. Thirty German tanks, 200 trucks, and 10 armored troop carriers were blasted from the air in the Chernyakhov and Brusilov sectors, where the Russian ground troops exacted a further toll of 26 tanks in throwing back Nazi assaults, the war bulletin said.

Manpower Losses Heavy
Southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, Red army airmen bombed concentrations of Nazi troops and trains at Apostolovo in the Dnieper bend, starting fires punctuated by heavy explosions.

Thirty-four German planes were shot down Monday, Moscow said.

Deeper pushes southwest of Kremenchuk left 300 Germans dead, and the Nazis suffered serious losses in manpower below Dnepropetrovsk, the communique asserted.

The reported drive into the Dnieper bend beyond Cherkassy captured Ruskay-Polyana, eight miles from the city.

Fortresses Heap More
Destruction On Bremen

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—Streaking through 65-below-zero weather, U. S. Flying Fortresses with powerful fighter escort continued the mighty new aerial offensive against Hitler's Europe today by heaping more destruction on the German port of Bremen in the second such daylight assault in four days.

In the attack on Bremen, which suffered a terrific pounding Friday by a record number of U. S. big planes, and other European targets during the day, 13 American heavy bombers and 18 fighter planes—16 of the latter American—were reported missing, while 35 Nazi aircraft were shot down.

And Raps At "Rats"

Lansing, Nov. 29 (AP)—Counsel for Major Charles F. Hemans, former regent of the University of Michigan, disclosed today that files of Hemans' confidential papers had been seized by Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr's one-man grand jury investigating the legislature.

Hemans, taking note of official revelation by the grand jury that his name had entered into its investigation, released through Seymour H. Pearson, his lawyer, a statement declaring "I am guilty of no wrong" and that any suggestion to the contrary would be "preposterous."

The former regent now is attached to the provost marshal's staff in Washington, and complained that his service in the army left him "totally unable" to personally "fight rats who take unfair advantage of my absence while in the armed service." The statement attacked the term "rats" to no specific individuals.

In a separate statement, the major took notice of published reports that State Rep. William C. Stenson, Greenland Republican, had made a secret trip to Washington and there identified Hemans as the man to whom the legislator has said he gave $1,000 which a briber had placed in Stenson's overcoat pocket.

Stenson claims to have identified Hemans' statement, "I never saw Stenson to know him, he was and do not know him, never talked with him, and it is my idea an attempt is being made to try this in the newspapers. . . . Looks to me as though they were trying to hang this on the first likely customer."

When last seen, he was heading for a Missouri river duck blind.

PEACE RUMORSReports Put Out To Hurt
Allied Cause, Declares
Secretary Of State

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull took some of the wind out of the latest bunch of ballooning peace rumors today with a sharp warning that "most of the time" such reports are put out to impair Allied prosecution of the war.

Hull did not say specifically what sources spread the peace talk, but it seemed clear that he had Nazi propaganda in mind. The intention, he told his press conference, is to build up overconfidence among the Allies in the hope that their vigorous attacks on Germany will be relaxed.

A short time before he spoke a news dispatch from Stockholm quoted a Svenska Dagbladet account of a story in the Swiss newspaper La Suisse to the effect that Germany had made a new peace proposal for submission to Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

Hull was asked whether he had any information "that would support rumors that a German peace move is afoot through the Vatican or other channels."

Permitting direct quotation, he gave this reply:

"I think I would be safe in authorizing you to quote me entirely in the negative about such rumors at every day's conference until I notify you to the contrary."

Chinese Rout Two
Japanese Divisions
Menacing Changteh

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Tuesday, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced today that two Japanese divisions, roughly 30,000 men, have been routed southwest and northwest of strategic Changteh in a bitter, three-day battle and are in full retreat.

Easing another threat to the transport center from which drives might be launched either against Changsha or Chungking itself, Chinese forces southeast of Changteh blunted the thrust of another Japanese column and turned it back to the north bank of the Yuoan river, the announcement continued.

The partly-encircled and battered city still was taking heavy punishment, however, with Japanese guns pouring incendiary and gas shells into it and subjecting it to almost incessant bombings.

Pilot Tommy Harmon
Again Reported Safe

U. S. 14th Air Force Headquarters in China, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lt. Tommy Harmon, fighter pilot of Michigan football fame who was reported missing recently, is safe, it was announced today.

Harmon was lost on a dive-bombing attack on Kukiang, a Yangtze river port, on October 30, when four U. S. Lightning planes were shot down in combat with Japanese Zeros.

It was the second time that the former All-American halfback had been reported missing. Last April a bomber he was piloting was disabled in a rain storm over French Guinea, and the six-man crew bailed out.

Harmon was saved after slashing through the jungle until he met natives who guided him to a settlement, and he credited his athletic training with helping him survive the ordeal.

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 29 (AP)—Striking with the same type of fierce night attack that instilled dread into the hearts of the Nazis in the African desert, the veteran British Eighth army has slammed into the enemy's main defenses at two points across the Sangro river, gaining vantage points from which additional advances could make the entire Adriatic end of the German "winter line" untenable.

Fully aware of their peril, the Germans fought tenaciously to hold heights commanding the enlarged Allied bridgehead near the mouth of the Sangro, and just as bitterly to hold rising ground across the river from the village of Archi, 13 miles inland.

Long Pounding Scores
The combined weight of massed Eighth army artillery, the daylong bombings of their positions by Allied planes and the driving onslaught of troops under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were too much for the Nazis, however, and official reports said the attack near the coast made "good progress."

In the second bridgehead opposite Archi a day of heavy sea-saw fighting ended with Montgomery's warriors holding valued high ground on the northwest side of the river. It was disclosed that this second crossing of the flooded

PONTIAC GROUP
CONDEMNS OPADenial Of C-Ration To Minister Brought Up
In Congress

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration was accused today of denying a preacher sufficient gasoline to perform his duties while some labor union organizers were allowed all they needed.

The accusation was made by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) in a statement to the house. He said the Rev. Leland L. Marion, Pontiac, Mich., had been denied a "C" gasoline ration book and quoted him as saying he had been forced to violate rationing regulations and accept gasoline donations from his parishioners in order to perform his ministerial duties.

Hoffman also quoted the minister as saying he was told by a ration board official "The quicker the churches close up the better it will be anyway."

"Union organizers," he declared, "have been getting all the gasoline they need, to drive from Grand Rapids to Holland, traveling at least fifty miles a day on a useless, unnecessary, destructive errand."

Hoffman said the organizers were following truckloads of coal from the yard of Mrs. Austin Harrington, Holland, Mich., whose drivers have declined to join the union, he added, "to make certain that it does not go to Holland industrial plants."

"But when a minister of the gospel wants gasoline to get to his people, or to preach a funeral sermon or bring a parishioner to the cemetery, that is something else again."

New York convicted him in 1941 for the 1936 slaying of Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn candy shop proprietor described by the prosecution as a police informer.

Germany Attempts To Impress Turkey, Takes Thera Island

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Germans, continuing their efforts to impress Turkey with their strength in the Aegean, announced today the capture of Thera (Santorini) Island north of Crete, while on the other side of the Balkan peninsula Yugoslav partisans announced new blows against Nazi forces trying to hold down the lid on their rebellious land.

The German radio said Thera surrendered to German naval forces Saturday night "with all its batteries and other defense installations." Since no British troops ever were announced as landing there, it was assumed that the surrendered garrison must have been Italian.

Cos, Leris and Samos—all previously seized by the British—were recently recaptured by the Germans.

Aussies Closing In
On Jap Strongpoint

BY ROBERT EUNSON

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Tuesday, Nov. 30, (AP)—Supported by waves of B25's and their own tanks, Australian infantrymen are closing in on the Bonga, a stubbornly defended Japanese jungle position northeast of Sattelberg, New Guinea.

Sattelberg, five miles northwest of Finschhafen airfield, was captured by the allies Nov. 26. A spokesman for General Douglas MacArthur, explaining the strategic value of Bonga, said that although Pino Hill has been taken in a bulge still remained in allied lines along the coastal trail. The assault on Bonga is intended to take out this bulge.

Pino Hill, a large irregular height, dominated the north-eastern half of the main jungle trail along Huon Peninsula.

AERIAL LICKING
DUE FOR TOKYOAfter Germany Comes
Nippon, British Air
Marshal Says

Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)—After Germany has been pounded out of the war Japan will be in for an even greater aerial licking.

That was the message Air Marshal Sir William Lawrie Welsh, air staff commander of the British joint staff mission, brought to members of the Economic Club of Detroit today.

The British air marshal pictured Germany as a country that has lost all hope of victory and one which "has every reason to believe there is worse to come."

"It is filled with sullen, hostile, foreign slaves waiting their moment," he said.

"Much of the steel production of the country (Germany) has been destroyed," he said, "and transportation facilities and public utilities very seriously damaged."

"Try to imagine the effect on a country's productive capacity of having 20 of its principal producing centers more of a liability than an asset; another 15 very badly damaged and all the remainder within range of attack from an enemy whose air power is rapidly increasing."

Sir William said that a system of priorities determines which areas shall be bombed. The bomber command rejoices, he added, when a factory is reconstructed, for it means that the industry is anchored and can be hit again and again just before it is completely rebuilt.

Murder Syndicate
Leader Headed For The Electric Chair

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, a one-time chief of the "dollar-a-death" syndicate, Murder, Inc., tonight appeared headed finally for the electric chair he has eluded for years.

The spotlight turned once more on the heavy-set, dark-eyed gangster as Attorney General Francis Biddle disclosed that the federal government was willing to give him up if the state of New York gave assurances it would carry out the death penalty.

Lepke, who rose from a youthful burglar to a criminal prominence that led Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, then district attorney, to describe him in 1939 as public enemy No. 1, is serving a 14-year federal sentence on a charge of operating a $10,000,000 narcotics ring.

New York convicted him in 1941 for the 1936 slaying of Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn candy shop proprietor described by the prosecution as a police informer.

Germany Attempts
To Impress Turkey,
Takes Thera Island

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Germans, continuing their efforts to impress Turkey with their strength in the Aegean, announced today the capture of Thera (Santorini) Island north of Crete, while on the other side of the Balkan peninsula Yugoslav partisans announced new blows against Nazi forces trying to hold down the lid on their rebellious land.

The German radio said Thera surrendered to German naval forces Saturday night "with all its batteries and other defense installations." Since no British troops ever were announced as landing there, it was assumed that the surrendered garrison must have been Italian.

Cos, Leris and Samos—all previously seized by the British—were recently recaptured by the Germans.

The attack on Bonga was launched last Saturday. Billy Mitchell medium bombers, flying at tree-top level, roared ahead of the Australians, strafing enemy lines as the attack began. The next day they blasted the Japanese again and by Sunday afternoon the Aussies had advanced to within two miles of Bonga. Meanwhile, Mosigeta, Marawaka, and Muplinda airdromes, all on the southeast coast of Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville Island, were attacked heavily by Dauntless and Avenger bombers escorted by P-39 fighters.

Some 50 Liberators attacked Wewak, the Japanese stronghold on the northeast coast of New Guinea. Escorted by Airacobas, the allied heavy bombers put 94 tons of bombs on the target. Night reconnaissance units raided shipping north of Rabaul, attacking two destroyers and a freighter. One of the destroyers was reported damaged.

Japanese warship losses have been mounting steadily toward a possible new high for a single month in the face of greatly increased American naval strength—an "ocean full" of aircraft carriers and other combat vessels.

An enemy cruiser, caught in the narrow waters of St. George Channel between New Britain and New Ireland, was the latest victim of allied power. Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported it was hit by a 1,000-pound bomb from a Liberator bomber. An internal explosion severely damaged the ship.

Twenty-one Japanese warships now have been reported sunk, and one probably sunk, so far this month in the battle for control of the South Pacific area. In addition, 29 combat vessels have been damaged or probably damaged. Virtually all of the enemy's losses have been in the general area of Rabaul, pivotal Japanese base on New Britain.

In strong contrast was the growing strength of American naval power. It includes an "ocean full" of carriers and other ships, said Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, new allied naval commander in the Southwest Pacific. A year ago there was only one allied carrier in the Pacific, and it was badly damaged.

DRIVE FOR NEW
TAXES STYMIEDAdministration Fights
Off Suggestions For Sales Levy

BY HOWARD FLEGER
Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The administration renewed its almost hopeless campaign for $10,500,000,000 in new taxes today, but fought off suggestions of a federal sales tax.

Secretary Morgenthau told the Senate Finance Committee the nation's skyrocketed war income could well bear that amount of additional taxes—an argument rejected by the House when it voted a tax bill out to $2,140,000,000.

Morgenthau and his aides spurned arguments that less government spending would lighten the tax need and said a sales tax would be entirely unfair to low-income families, and would be more trouble than it is worth.

The administration officials opened their renewed plea for heavier taxes, knowing that the odds were heavily against their getting $10,500,000,000 from the Congress.

"An essential part of fighting a war is paying for it in the right way at the right time," Morgenthau declared. "It is a great fallacy to suppose that we can fight history's greatest war to save what we hold most dear without financial sacrifice."

U. S. Bombers Armed With 75MM Cannon

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Armor-smashing 75 mm. cannon which make ordinary airplane guns seem like pea-shooters have been installed in U. S. medium bombers and one pilot used the flying field artillery to sink a Japanese destroyer.

The Army disclosed today that its B-25 Mitchells—the type that raided Tokyo—now are armed with 75's similar to the famous French field pieces.

The revelation tied in with reports from the Navy that it too had some "secret weapons" which now are being used against the axis.

The U. S. Army air force is the first ever to use cannon of this size.

PEACE TERMSROOSEVELT - STALIN -
CHURCHILL PACT
ANTICIPATED

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—A declaration of epochal importance involving a possible demand for Germany's surrender and signed by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin in the first meeting of the "big three" is expected—to be announced perhaps within a few days.

It is speculated from reports from abroad that such a document, in terms more precise than the Atlantic charter, certainly would state the peace principles for application to Germany and her satellites.

Allied officials maintained silence as to the dates and site of the conference. Axis and neutral comment, often conflicting, persisted.

Meeting in Egypt?

The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio said tonight "according to neutral reports reaching Vichy, Roosevelt and Churchill have arrived in Cairo and Stalin, on his way to Egypt, has reached Tahan. The meeting of the three statesmen will take place in the next few days, either in Cairo or Alexandria."

An odd editorial was reported in a Munich newspaper.

The Zurich correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet quoted today from the Muenchener Neueste Nachrichten: "Everybody knows the fifth winter of the war will be the last, but one must reckon with the war being intensified daily until the great end. That end cannot be far away."

Although there is no confirmation, reports from abroad have persisted that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has joined in the greatest conference yet on the war and peace strategy of the United Nations, but it is believed that if he did so he probably participated mainly in talks apart from those attended by the Russians, who are not fighting Japan.

There were reports, too, that President Eduard Benes of the Czechoslovak government-in-exile was attending this conference.

Berlin Critical

German propagandists anticipated an announcement of such a conference with an effort to minimize its importance. "Since efforts to bring about this conference have been made for the last two years, it would not be surprising if a conference should at last take place," said DNB in a Berlin broadcast. "It is surprising, however, that the meeting should take place so soon after the Moscow conference of foreign ministers of Britain, Russia and the United States."

"Since the Moscow conference, the situation on the whole has not changed. Stalin, Churchill, and Roosevelt therefore can hardly discuss anything that Molotov, (Continued on Page Two)

Martin Lyons, 78, Had Lived In Escanaba Since 1869

Martin T. Lyons, 78, retired Chicago & North Western Railway employee, and a resident of Escanaba since 1869, died Sunday night at 9:30 o'clock, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Blahnik, 209 North Tenth street. His death came suddenly following a heart attack.

Mr. Lyons was born in Fair Hill, County Galway, Ireland, November 1, 1865, and came to Escanaba with his parents when he was four years old. He was one of Escanaba's early day undertakers, at that profession from 1890 until 1905, and from 1905 until 1935, he was employed by the Chicago & North Western. He was retired with pension, on December 1, 1935. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish and had been a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians since 1897.

Eden, and Hull did not discuss. "If a meeting nevertheless has convened, it may be concluded that the Moscow conference brought no agreement, and the affirmation of solidarity among the leaders of the United Nations is expected to constitute one of the greatest accomplishments of any consultation.

It is taken for granted in London that they would join in reaffirming the unconditional surrender policy, and elaborate it with a statement to the German people of the treatment they might expect if they aid in shortening the war by throwing out the Nazis.

Although the allied powers apparently have agreed on a strategy of an all-out assault on Germany in the spring, military as well as diplomatic consultations are believed to be involved in the conference.

The highest-ranking military figures are expected to attend any such meeting. On the diplomatic side, President Roosevelt's party likely would include Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as well as Harry Hopkins, chairman of the British-American munitions assignment board, and W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to Russia.

Since John G. Winant, ambassador to Britain, is mentioned as probable American representative on the European advisory commission which is to carry on further consultations in London, his presence also is indicated.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Russia's Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov cleared the diplomatic ground for the meeting of their chiefs with Roosevelt, and their attendance may be considered a virtual certainty.

Soft Coal Ceiling Increased 50 Cents To Michigan Users

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration (OPA) today formally raised soft coal ceiling prices an average of 17 cents a ton at the mines to compensate producers for higher labor costs.

Some operators and the United Mine Workers were represented earlier in the day as dissatisfied with the price hike, which was tentative at that time. Some questioned whether it would be enough to carry the load of a proposed $1.50 a day wage increase contained in a new contract urged by Interior Secretary Ickes, government operator of the pits.

OPA varied the ceiling by districts, the Michigan increase being 50 cents. The wage negotiations had adjourned until this breakdown was made available so each producer would know how it affects him in dollars and cents.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 29 (AP)—Kalamazoo county's last Civil War veteran, Smith Carlton, 96 years old, died today.

Carlton, former commander of the Michigan G. A. R., succumbed in Bronson hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by an automobile. He suffered a broken leg and other injuries while indulging in his daily habit of walking from his home to downtown Kalamazoo, a distance of two miles.

The necessity for our wartime price control and rationing program, and the problems arising in its administration, were described to the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday noon by L. L. The OPA office for the Upper Peninsula is to be established in Escanaba effective December 1, moving here from Iron Mountain with Mr. Farrell in charge.

SUB WARFARE ON JAPS AIDED

New Victories In Pacific Give Valuable Bases For Our Fleet

BY COL. FREDERICK PALMER North American Newspaper Alliance

That is a terrific score our submarines have made in accounting for 505 of the 745 Japanese ships the navy reports having sunk and damaged since Pearl Harbor. This suggests that it is as important to have the Gilbert Islands which we have won as a submarine base nearer Japanese home waters as a plane base nearer Tokyo.

The submarine's victims are almost altogether merchant ships. They include some tankers. Jap seamen are having their experience in jumping overboard into flaming oil.

What a long column the 505 ships would make, placed a ship's length apart! At anchor, allowing room in which to swing with the tide, they would crowd New York harbor.

Each ship sunk is so much less tonnage for seaborne Japan's life line, and so much less cargo which never will reach port. It is so much less tonnage, going and coming, in supplying Japan's armies in Manchukuo and China, and all the far-flung garrisons of her conquests; so much less oil and gas and food for her conquests.

The ships, which are crippled, but able to limp to port, have to be repaired, occupying shipyards which are in a losing race to keep ship construction abreast of ship destruction.

Subs Have Long Range Submarines have a much longer range than bombers even without bomb loads. They can go under water past air bases and big coastal guns and through narrow passages which surface naval ships must avoid. They are hunters of ships exclusively, while bombers are hunters on both land and sea.

Submarines can lay up after an attack, watching for another target. Bombers have to return to base for more bombs after every raid, but submarines have to return to refill their shelves only when they have no torpedoes left for further sinkings.

The nearer their bases the more time and fuel they have for pressing the battle in the danger zone they have created. That danger zone for Japan, where the trade routes converge to her ports, is like that off Britain created by the German U-boats early in the war.

British submarines will be operating from bases in the Bay of Bengal on Japanese communications farther south. Since the French are interested in recovering French Indo-China, their submarines, which escaped from Toulon to North Africa, should eventually be in the battle, too.

And how about the Italian submarines which surrendered to General Eisenhower when the reward, of Italy, as an ally, is to be measured by her contributions to the Allied war effort?

The more submarines which are knifing the Japanese sea life line the better when there are Allied bases in range to enable Allied bombers to do to Tokyo what the R.A.F. has been doing to Berlin.

By taking Gomel the Russians have shown they knew the answer to the German counter-attack which retook Zhitomir. They went right on with their general plan of offensive in enveloping Gomel. The Germans might have Zhitomir for the present. The Russians stalled the German advance from Zhitomir to Kiev. Having lost Gomel, Zhitomir very largely loses its value for the Germans, and the Russians should recover Zhitomir largely.

END WAR FUND DRIVE SATURDAY

Wells, Garden Townships Exceed Quotas In Campaign

Delaying the close of the Delta county War Fund campaign to Saturday, December 4, to permit all solicitors to complete their canvasses and make their reports, is expected to bring the county over its $30,000 quota. Some of the solicitors have been deer hunting and have not had the opportunity to complete their work.

Gerald Cleary, chairman of the county War Fund campaign committee, yesterday announced that two additional townships have reported going over their quotas in the drive toward the goal. This makes a total of eleven townships now members of the War Fund "Over the Top" club.

The second thrust across the Sangro at Archi appeared to put the Eighth army astride a lateral road which has been used by the Nazis to supply their elaborate defensive positions behind the river. This strategic highway is several miles back from the Sangro elsewhere, but opposite Archi it swings down into the river valley only a mile from the banks of the stream.

German anxiety over the situation was reflected in the weight of the enemy's many counterattacks as well as in his continued heavy artillery fire against American positions on the Fifth army front.

West of Venafro, American troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army gained more high ground in a limited advance and broke up determined German counterattacks.

As usual when General Montgomery sends his Eighth army into battle, yesterday morning's assault was preceded by hours of massed artillery bombardment that turned the enemy's positions into a cauldron of fire and explosions. As the attack progressed, the Allied air force shuttled across the Sangro to unload a steady stream of bombs on the Nazis. Fourteen large formations of American, British and South African light bombers carried the brunt of this assault.

Planes Spread Confusion The German air force, making its first appearance in strength over the battle lines in recent weeks, sent three formations of fighter-bombers against the advancing British troops, but each group was intercepted by Spitfires, which destroyed two Messerschmitt-109s and one Focke-Wulf-190 and damaged others.

Helping to cut the enemy's line of supplies from northern Italy, two British destroyers bombarded the Adriatic port of Civitanova, 85 miles up the coast from the Sangro, while American A-36 dive-bombers created what was officially reported as "widespread confusion and havoc" among enemy troop concentrations, barracks and road traffic in the Rome area.

Carrying the war outside Italy, seven separate waves of American Mitchell medium bombers made strong attacks on Dubrovnik, Sibenik and Zara, German-held ports in Yugoslavia across the Adriatic. American Liberators flew into the Alps of northernmost Italy to bomb a railway viaduct and tunnel at Doga, 60 miles north of Trieste, where the only direct railway from Germany, aside from Brenner Pass, enters Italy.

Michigan Nurses Missing On Lost Transport Plane

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The war department announced today that 12 army nurses and 12 soldiers, all passengers on an army transport flying from North Africa to Italy, have been missing since Nov. 8.

(Allied headquarters at Algiers reported earlier that the plane overshoot its destination in bad weather and the last word from the craft was received while it presumably was over the Adriatic.)

The passengers included five from Michigan who with their next of kin, are Second Lieutenants Agnes A. Jensen (father, Lauritz E. Jensen) Route 1, Standwood; Eugene H. Rutkowski (Mrs. Frances Rutkowski, mother) Detroit; and Lillian J. Tachna (Paul Tachna, father) Hamtramck; Technicians Third Grade Lawrence O. Abbott (Mrs. Caroline Abbott, mother) Newaygo, and Charles J. Adams (Mrs. Winogene C. Adams, wife) Niles.

MAIN GERMAN LINE DENTED BY 8TH ARMY

Sangro was first achieved four days ago by the famous 78th British division, veterans of "Long Stop Hill" in Tunisia.

Repeated German counterattacks, with flame-throwing tanks in the van, failed to halt the offensive, but extremely heavy fighting continued.

Supply Road Cut The second thrust across the Sangro at Archi appeared to put the Eighth army astride a lateral road which has been used by the Nazis to supply their elaborate defensive positions behind the river. This strategic highway is several miles back from the Sangro elsewhere, but opposite Archi it swings down into the river valley only a mile from the banks of the stream.

BAKER LECTURE HERE TONIGHT

Changes In Series Are Announced By Town
Hall Committee

Aloha Baker, lecturer and world traveler, will deliver an illustrated lecture on "Australia Now" on the Town Hall program at the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Before the talk, there will be a half-hour concert by an Escanaba high school musical group.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The following musical solos will be played by seniors of the Escanaba high school, beginning at 7:30 p. m.:
Nellie Hendricks—Piano solo, "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," by Rachmaninoff.
Wayne Crebo—Flute solo, "Nightingale Serenade," by Popp.
Mark Bergman—Piano solo, "Maglagnaema," by Lecuona.

Mrs. Baker, who has lived in 85 countries and speaks six languages, will present a well-rounded picture of the continent "down under," its people, agriculture, industry and contribution to the war effort. She will be introduced by Miss Helen Snyder, member of the Escanaba senior high school faculty.

Henry Scott Coming
The Town Hall committee announced yesterday that conditions beyond its control have forced a rearrangement of the remainder of the series.

First of all, the lecture on post-war homes by Wilfrid L. Husband, scheduled for Dec. 15, has been postponed until Feb. 28 due to the fact that Mr. Husband has been detained by a series of engagements on the Pacific coast.

Julian Gromer, scheduled to talk on March 20, has been called into military service, and the Town Hall committee is substituting at three times the cost a concert by Henry Scott, the pianist-humorist star of stage, concert and radio. Since his college days, Henry Scott has progressed steadily as artist and humorist, culminating in that coveted ambition of every artist, a successful concert at Town Hall in New York on Sept. 26, 1941. Scott will play here in mid-January.

Slim Williams will give a talk on Alaska and the international highway on Feb. 8. The Orpheus Choral concert date also will be changed, probably to March or April.

Interesting Talk On Wales Is Given At Kiwanis Meeting

An interesting talk on Wales was given by Rev. Alvin Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel Monday noon.

Reverend Jones described Wales as a mountainous area, with extensive coal mining and other industry in the southern part and considerable farming in the northern section. Its population is more than two million.

The Welsh are a deeply religious people, and non-churchgoers would be socially ostracized, the speaker said. The Welshmen are intensely interested in singing and, in fact, tackle every job with determination and energy.

"No one loves peace more than the Welshmen, but no one will fight harder for peace," Reverend Jones said. He added that Welsh casualties in the present war are greater per capita than any other peoples of the British forces.

Other information about religious customs, the Welshmen's sense of humor and conditions in Wales was also presented by the speaker.

THE QUESTION: "Do you think Russia will permit the Allies to use bases in Siberia for offensive action against Japan?"

THE ANSWERS:
Pvt. Robert Fontaine, 221 South 11th street, on furlough from Camp Young, California: "When a tentative peace is established in the European war theater that is satisfactory to Russia, I believe that Siberian bases will be made available to the United States. It is not likely, however, that Russia will provide those bases prior to a satisfactory settlement of the war in Europe. Personally, I don't think the United States wants those bases before that time."

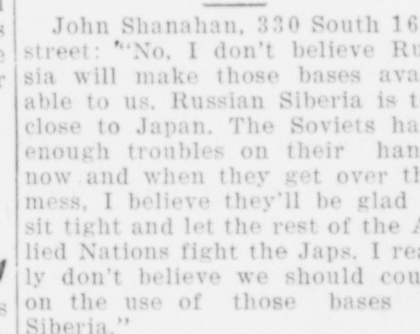

Robert Fontaine Walter Hornstein

Ensign Walter Hornstein, Coast Guard Temporary Reserve, Garden: "Yes, I think that ultimately we will get bases in Siberia, but not now. Complications resulting from a war with Japan are too great even for a powerful nation like Russia while she is engaged in war with Germany. When the time comes for a concentrated drive against Japan, I think Russia will be prepared to do her part."

Gene Beaudoin, 1406 Ludington: "I look for Russia to provide bases in Siberia to the Allied Nations in 1944. Germany will be whipped this winter and with that threat erased, Russia will get her chance to get even with Japan. The Germans are already cracking and they certainly cannot escape total defeat before spring. With bases in Siberia, we can give Japan a real taste of modern war."

John Shanahan, 330 South 16th street: "No, I don't believe Russia will make those bases available to us. Russian Siberia is too close to Japan. The Soviets have enough troubles on their hands now and when they get over this mess, I believe they'll be glad to sit tight and let the rest of the Allied Nations fight the Japs. I really don't believe we should count on the use of those bases in Siberia."

John Shanahan Adolph Flink

Adolph Flink: "The Russians are our allies and their cooperation is expected. Nevertheless, I'm frank to admit that I can't figure out the Russians. They may give us the bases but I wouldn't count on it too much. Of course, the Russians have no love for the Japs, either, and that may influence their decision. There has been nothing to indicate that the Allies have any agreement with Russia concerning those bases, though."

DEBACKER BUYS 960-ACRE AREA

St. Nicholas Farmer Is
Owner Of Herman
Johnson Ranch

The purchase by Emil DeBacker, prominent St. Nicholas farmer, of the 960-acre Herman Johnson ranch west of Rock near the Escanaba river has been announced by Mr. DeBacker, who said the ranch area "will make ideal farm land."

Johnson has operated a beef cattle ranch there for several years. The ranch is well equipped with buildings and equipment for this type of industry.

"The ranch will make ideal farm land and offers a great opportunity," DeBacker said. "It is a level area without swamps and can be easily cleared."

DeBacker settled in Delta county about 1920, coming here from Belgium, where he served in the Belgian army during the first World War. Conditions there after the war were not conducive to his remaining on his father's farm and he came to this country, directly to Delta county and the St. Nicholas area.

At the present time DeBacker already has over 300 acres under cultivation on his farm at St. Nicholas.

MORE BEER IN WARTIME

The "Daily Press" of Nov. 24, the day before Thanksgiving Day, carries the word that the breweries of Michigan produced 21.36 per cent more beer during October 1943 than they produced during the same period in 1942, or an increase of $8,179.7 barrels.

This may have given the brewers a happy Thanksgiving, but doubtless it gave hundreds, perhaps thousands, an awful headache.

The manpower, the materials, the gasoline, the rubber and the space necessary for manufacturing, handling, transporting and distributing this amount, with its increase, of a product that harms instead of helps, that blasts instead of builds, that lowers instead of lifts, in such a time of shortages as ours, should be seriously called in question by the sober-minded men and women of Michigan and of America who are sending their girls, boys and bonds, as well as working on the home front to win this war.

This increased amount is approximately five glasses of beer more per every man, woman and child in the state of Michigan for the month of October. But about half of our population are minors and should never drink alcoholic beverages under any consideration. According to reports of recent dry referendums about one in three is a dry, and minors cannot vote. If these facts are anywhere near correct it means that the Michigan breweries produced approximately eleven more glasses

Mrs. Hambrick, 28, Former Escanaban, Dies in McAllen, Tex.

Mrs. Calvin Hambrick, 28, of McAllen, Tex., the former Caroline Alley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Alley of Escanaba and McAllen, died on Monday, November 19, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Hambrick was born in Escanaba, March 23, 1915, and was educated in the Escanaba schools. Her marriage took place five years ago in McAllen.

Surviving are her husband and one son, Calvin, Jr., 4; her parents, and three brothers and two sisters, Frank Alley, of Munising; George, of Detroit; Gordon, Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Conrad Roistch, the former Louise Alley, of McAllen; and Marian, of Escanaba.

Funeral services were held on Monday, November 22, at McAllen, and burial was made there. Mrs. Alley and Marian left for McAllen, when word of Mrs. Hambrick's serious illness was received, and Mr. Alley will join them there shortly, the family planning to remain for the winter.

of beer per drinker in Michigan this year than they did last year in the month of October.

Will this give greater efficiency to produce more timber, build more bombers, make more tanks or supply more ships?

It would be of interest to know the percentage of increase, or decrease, for that period of ice cream, cheese, butter, eggs, shoe leather, etc., etc.

Christian people of Michigan need not be alarmed over apparent inconsistencies, but they should be mightily stirred over such challenging facts. Christian people everywhere should organize a crusade of temperance teaching and living that will demand the respect even of the liquor men themselves. These men have souls for whom the Savior died as well as anyone else. Will we unite? We must—we can—and, I trust, we will.

Patton Incident Spotlights Prevalence Of "War Shock"

The "most important medical problem of modern warfare" is a variety of shock neuroses, including the "combat fatigue" from which a soldier in Sicily was suffering when Lieut.-Gen. George Patton slapped him and denounced him as a coward. What "combat fatigue" is, and how it is treated, here is told through an interview with the leading psychiatric consultant on the subject.

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG
NEA Staff Correspondent

Philadelphia—The big military-medical problem overseas today is "combat fatigue"—physical and nervous exhaustion from hard service in the fighting zones.

Actual battle wounds from bullets and bombs account for only about 10 per cent of casualties in specific campaigns and 5 per cent in combat theatres as a whole. But neuroses, of which one is combat fatigue, are reported to account for 30 per cent of all casualties and disability. It is estimated that the Army is discharging, at all points from training to battle, around 10,000 neuro-psychiatric casualties per month.

Military psychiatrists are defeating combat fatigue, often all on the spot. Dr. Edward A. Strecker, University of Pennsylvania psychiatrist and expert on the subject, says the larger percentages of its victims get well. Whenever possible they are treated at advance hospital stations within a short distance of the battle that breaks them. In a few weeks, many go back into action. All get treatment overseas, and many recover without being hospitalized.

CURED IN FEW WEEKS
Some need and get further treatment, such as group therapy

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENS

The sufferer is abed after six weeks' jungle fighting. He tosses in "catastrophic nightmares" which bring back the screaming wings and the voices of Japs yelling epithets. Awake, he does not remember those, nor seeing his friends held blown off. He is morose, ever vigilantly anxious, and he may display "startle reaction"—jumping a yard if someone lights a match near him.

He may be given repeated doses of sodium amylal. He sleeps. Treatment begins with about 48 hours' rest. Sometimes it is advisable to induce a state of "twilight sleep"—to place the patient in a kind of no-man's-land between wakefulness and sleep, by giving him sodium pentothal. Then the doctor starts talking to him, forcing him to re-live his combat experience:

"Here come the Japs . . . how do you feel? There, they got his sergeant! See his head go! How do you feel?"

The soldier cowers under the bedclothes. He may leap and run to the door, pounding on it. And that is his first step toward getting well.

For perhaps an hour, by direct suggestion, the doctor keeps before the soldier the events of horror—and hardship which inspired reactions of fear and shame he could not face consciously—which caused the neurosis. In his twilight state, the soldier begins to talk, and as he does, recalling the things he had repressed, he recovers.

CURED IN FEW WEEKS
Some need and get further treatment, such as group therapy

—in which they talk to each other, and cure each other. This is done at intermediate points, farther back from the fronts, usually. A man having severe combat fatigue may take four or five weeks to get back to the front. In the Navy, many are cured more swiftly, aboard ships.

Dr. Strecker now spends most of his time in Washington and at hospitals in the east. He is one of the Surgeon's General's consultants on war neuroses, and he is the top advisor to the Navy, the Army Air Forces and the Merchant Marine.

Strecker recalls that neuro-psychiatric casualties numbered one out of seven of all casualties in World War 1, and he forecasts that the incidence will be higher this time. Chief reasons: participants face death on a vaster and more violent scale. Also, exposure to anxiety-producing situations—mental and bodily shock and strain, especially strain—continue for longer periods in this conflict. Often, now, the fighter's balance is tipped by such factors: 95 per cent of the first combat psycho-neurotic casualties suffered also from physical exhaustion and tropical diseases.

Snow Removal On Private Driveways Is Not Restricted

The ODT has not issued any formal order restricting the removal of snow from private driveways or rights of way, Edward J. Konkol, district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation at Green Bay, Wisconsin announced.

There appears to be considerable misunderstanding and confusion resulting from prior newspaper releases issued from this office relative to this problem. Complaints particularly are being received from milk haulers and milk producers who have misinterpreted or misunderstood prior newspaper stories and have concluded that they would be denied motor fuel allotments if they removed snow from private driveways.

This is erroneous, Konkol stated, and such action will not be taken by the ODT since it is recognized that milk must be transported from the farm to market regardless of highway conditions.

300,000 Men Called

JUST how meaningless congressional action designed to impede the drafting of pre-war fathers really is will be shown in January when the draft boards act to meet the combined army-navy call of 300,000 men.

The legislation, now awaiting presidential action, restricts draft boards from inducting pre-war fathers until all non-fathers in the country are inducted. The legislation, however, stipulates that the restriction shall not apply if it would result in failure to meet military quotas.

It is obvious that the quota of 300,000 men for January induction cannot possibly be filled unless a large percentage of pre-war fathers are included.

All that congress has accomplished in wrestling with the father draft legislation is to slow down the draft process while congressmen were wrangling over the legislation. As a result, draft boards throughout the country are far behind quotas. Valuable time needed to train men in the technique of modern warfare has been lost.

Pre-war fathers have been falsely led to believe that congress would prevent their induction into military service. Actually, it is likely that not a single father who was ticketed for induction will be spared by virtue of this legislation.

Fortunately, certain congressmen have not been permitted to substitute their judgment of military requirements for the judgment of the men who are charged with the responsibility of running the army and the navy.

Large Carrier Force

THE Navy department has released the encouraging news that 40 airplane carriers have been added to the fleet within the past 11 months.

Doubtless most of them are converted cruisers and other vessels, but they are counted upon to be of much value when we start to carry the Pacific war to the mainland of Japan. At the same time, it has been revealed that the American fleet is now double the strength it was before Pearl Harbor, an achievement in shipbuilding that testifies to America's great production resources.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that Japan has been consolidating her gains since Pearl Harbor. In the two years time, she has been able to acquire untold stocks of oil and minerals from the Netherlands Indies, Philippines and other conquered areas. She has had time to convert this wealth of newly acquired resources into guns, airplanes, ships and fortifications.

The story of the United States Marines' exploits in the Gilbert Islands also gives a disturbing hint of the growing strength of the enemy. Secret fortifications, developed by the Japanese on the other rim of her island outposts, proved to be tough obstacles for our forces to overcome, and these are only a sample of what the enemy has in store for us as we advance closer to Tokyo.

Many Americans will have to die in our war of extermination against Japan. When we hear reports of large enemy casualties we must also assume that this punishment was not inflicted without injury to ourselves. The war's end is still not in sight. It will call for much more blood and sweat before victory can be achieved.

No Tourist Highway?

MUCH has been said and written about the prospects of the Alaskan highway's becoming a great tourist road in peacetime, but the man who supervised its construction doubts that it will be.

Brig. Gen. James A. O'Connor, U. S. Army, a native of Seney in Upper Michigan, said on a recent trip to Vancouver that the great highway would not be abandoned after the war, but he expressed doubt it would prove a lure for many automobile travelers.

O'Connor explains that the average tourist has two or three weeks vacation, and in most cases it would take that much time to reach Dawson Creek. He believes its most important peacetime function should be as a means of making new mining and settlement areas accessible.

Like the Escanaba ore dock project, the Alaskan highway was built as insurance. When it appeared that Japan would seize control of the Pacific after her sneak attack upon Pearl Harbor, the United States wanted to make certain it had a line of communication to Alaska for the job of winning back what we had lost. Now that we again control the Pacific sea lanes to the north, the bulk of the shipments to Alaska will be going henceforth by water. In times of war, a nation cannot afford to take chances, and consequently huge expenditures of money and effort must be made on insurance measures.

Out of Debt

CHALK up another achievement for city manager government in the United States.

When Henry A. Sherman assumed the position of the first city manager of Sault Ste. Marie in 1920, the Lock city had a bonded indebtedness of $315,000 of general bond issues and $339,000 of water department bonds. Now the municipality is free of all financial obligations with the exception of library bonds amounting to only 4,500, the last of which will mature in 1946.

During the past 23 years, Sault Ste. Marie also has expended considerable money in public improvements, particularly in the depression period on work relief projects. Now, the city administration is making plans for post war improvements to the sidewalks, streets and other public works.

Sault Ste. Marie's accomplishment has been duplicated in Escanaba and many other communities where the modern system of manager government has been substituted for the old politics-ridden system. Their achievements should be a source of inspiration to the citizens of Ishpeming and other cities who are now bending their efforts toward modernization of their local government.

DEERSKINS IN MODERN WAR

(Portland Oregonian)

It is a long time since buckskin was needed for war—it takes us back to Dan'l Boone's day—but buckskin is needed more urgently now than ever it was. When Daniel Boone wore it, fringed, it was both his workday garments and his best Sunday suit, and that he fought Indians in this frontier attire was merely incidental. But here is a present-day plea from the war production board and the fish and wildlife service for deer hides and elk hides, and it is addressed to American sportsmen. With our foreign imports of these skins at an end, and with buckskin now of great military value, the only available source of supply is here in our own country.

It is suggested, even pleaded, that deer and elk skins taken by hunters in a lawful manner be sold or released to a tanner, dealer, glove manufacturer or similar intermediary for transfer to the government. A war production board order requires the channeling of deerskins into military equipment, except those hides which are used for personal or gift purposes. The skins will furnish leathers essential to the making of gloves and mukluks (arctic shoes) for the cold zones of global war. The successful hunter is requested, as a patriotic obligation, to remove and preserve the hides carefully, and to arrange that they shall be used in this manufacture. If you are at loss to know how to proceed, ask your state game commission.

Last season more than 162,000 deer and elk hides collected by hunters in the various states were channeled into the leather trade for military use. The magnitude of this contribution emphasized the importance of participation.

OTHER PEOPLES' MONEY

(Sault Ste. Marie News)

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau has announced the issue of another so-called Lure Book next year, but there is little prospect that many summer or winter resorters will be lured this way by it.

In normal times the Bureau is concerned almost 100 percent with tourist promotion, but the latter is not a very live issue today and probably for some time to come. Travel at the Straits is plainly at a minimum, around 19 to 25 percent of the 1940 volume and about 40 percent below last year's greatly reduced figures.

The Bureau no longer has good means of contact with the public through the medium of the friendly midwestern press. The co-operation of the latter was very largely responsible for the tourist volume of peace times. The publicity value of the Lure Book compared to its cost is doubtful at best, but it has helped to keep the organization alive and to provide the secretary with a good job.

A poll of those contributing to the Bureau in recent years very likely would call for minimum outlay during the war, keeping an office open with a girl to answer the few inquiries, but abolishing all other expense. The Bureau may call upon the Legislature for financial help at the next session, but any monies appropriated this time will have to come out of taxpayers' pockets and not from tourist revenues as in years when there was huge tourist business.

It is all right to keep a Bureau office in commission at rock bottom outlay through these troublous times, but it should be recognized that there can be little or no returns to the peninsula from even such limited action at this time. Any other course is liable to criticism as an unwise use of other people's money.

The man about town always is flirting with being about broke.

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — A few weeks ago, Father Thomas E. Shortell, S. J., in some remarks under the auspices of the Institute of Public Relations of Holy Cross college, said that the sincerity of these dispatches, as they deal with criminality and other outrages in union practice, was subject to doubt because they ignore anti-social practices by some employers. I replied that it was immaterial whether the essays were sincere and that the allegations and the arguments alone should be considered. Father Shortell then sent me a long and courteous letter which he also released to the press, which in some cases published it. It is much too long for my space and I would surely be charged with unfair presentation if I were to try to condense it.

However, let us proceed. If it is fair to take me by the hand and lead me afire as Father Shortell would, then it is fair, also, for me to remind Father Shortell of a notable essay written by another Jesuit priest a few years ago, entitled open letter to a Catholic politician who is an un-Catholic boss. The author is Father Daniel A. Lord, editor of the Queen's Work, published in St. Louis.

—REFERRED TO GRAFTERS—
In his open letter, Father Lord referred to easily recognizable Catholic politicians who were obvious grafters, one a Hitlerian dictator, and betrayers of free government in the United States and told this composite crook that "the confessional is the place for the discussion of this thing called honest graft."

"It would seem," he wrote, "that there would be some necessity for restitution when a public official can have a magnificent country estate, a winter home in Florida, a fleet of motor cars, a rosy chorus of house servants, an annual trip to Europe, and a bank account of something like a half-million dollars on salary of less than $10,000 a year."

Along this line, I suggest to Father Shortell that a similar letter should be addressed by him to a hypothetical and composite Catholic union boss, inasmuch as the Catholic clergy, tardily and only after the Communists had made great headway among discouraged and bewildered workers, has recently been taking a strong part in union affairs by educating workers and union officials in their rights and duties and particularly in parliamentary procedure. This last is very important because the Communists school themselves in parliamentary tricks and learn to speak out in meeting and thus for a long time were able to tie the opposition into knots. The opposition also were bashful and easily howled down by Communist minorities. The Catholic labor schools are trying to redress that serious disadvantage by educating the rank and file.

—CHANCE FOR CLEANUP—

There are, among the powerful union bosses of the country, some Catholics who are just as pernicious in their field as Father Lord's composite political boss. In fact some of them are both union bosses and public politicians. It would be an exaggeration to say that they have relatively created as much anti-Catholic feeling as Father Lord feels that his political boss has aroused but it is not overstating matters to say that they have impaired the worker's faith in unionism just as much as Father Lord's boss has undermined popular faith in our kind of government. One of the worst is a high official of the A. F. of L. who is not a crook at all, I truly believe, but runs with the vilest crooks, never takes any initiative against them, solicits their support in the inner politics of the A. F. of L. and by their help obviously hopes to succeed William Green as president, Green being old now and on his way to retirement. He is the worst because while the workers have confidence that he is not a crook, still they know he will never do anything to break and expel a crook. The case is analogous to that of a pious and church-going Catholic political boss who nevertheless protects the underworld and helps elect crooks to office in return for their support at the polls when he is running for election.

I am not questioning Father Lord's sincerity in pointing out this opportunity. It may be just a possibility that he has overlooked or he may have thought of it and for honest reasons decided against it. I believe, however, that the whole labor movement would gain greatly by a resounding public repudiation of bad Catholic union-bosses.

aviator as "tore." It should be "ter," as in "letter, better."

The word ATTACK does not end with a "t." The common mispronunciation "uh-TAKT" is probably influenced by false association with such words as "attract, detract, contract." Be sure to say: uh-TAK.

The past tense, ATTACKED, likewise is not spelled with "t." and is a word of two syllables only, thus: uh-TAKT.

Commentator — speaks of war mothers receiving "moments" of their soldier sons. Momento is the Spanish word for "moment." The proper word to designate a souvenir or relic is MEMENTO, pronounced: mee-MEN-toe.

Since the adoption of the new CARBINE by the Army, the rifle is being called "KAHR-bin" or "KAHR-been." But the second syllable must rhyme with "dine, fine," thus: KAHR-bine.

Be a master of words; learn to express yourself clearly and forcefully. My pamphlet contains valuable hints on vocabulary building, a method I have used for years. Send a stamped (3c), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper. Ask for VOCABULARY BUILDING. It's free.

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler

ANONYMOUS — Persons who write communications to The Bugler and do not sign their names, especially if what they write is at all controversial, must resign themselves to having their contributions tossed in the scrap basket. The need for this warning is unfortunately arising again, this time in connection with a subject on which The Bugler has written before.

Dunathan

What the anonymous communicator has written is the sort of opinion one would expect from a person who hasn't the courage to affix a signature to a letter he expects to be printed. If what he has to say is of such character he doesn't even want The Bugler to know who he is, then it would be better if he didn't write at all.

To this person, who signed himself "An Escanaba Reader," The Bugler addresses the following:

A Delta County War Fund thank you card, addressed to a lady at Ford River who had already contributed generously, brought a letter in reply. In this letter the lady thanked the War Fund committee for the card she had received—and enclosed was a check to the War Fund for $2 because she wanted to help more.

Can you, "An Escanaba Reader," say that you received the appreciation of the War Fund committee in equal spirit of generous sincerity? And since you did not sign your name—did you give to the War Fund at all?

DEAR BUGLER: Will you please print this in your column?

It is about a dog named Brownie belonging to two little boys, one two and one-half years old, the other 13 months.

This morning (Nov. 24) Brownie was let out about 7 o'clock, an hour earlier than usual. A half hour later he came limping home, shot through the hind legs and stomach, blood just gushing from his wounds, while his eyes pleaded for help.

Upon examination by a veterinarian it was discovered the dog had six holes in his body from one bullet. We are treating him with hopes of preventing infection and saving his life because he's such a faithful dog.

Ever since Tommy came home from the hospital, Brownie has faithfully watched over him as Tommy sleeps out in the sunshine and fresh air most of the day. If both babies have to sleep indoors, Brownie also sleeps indoors, waiting for them to wake up and go out. In case Henning, Jr., ventures into the street, Brownie pulls him back by the coat.

Brownie isn't a tramp dog, running around day and night. However, this being a roaming time of the year for dogs, Brownie ventured to the business district which is two blocks from our home — where great dog lovers was waiting with his gun to shoot a faithful dog who had been out less than half an hour.

According to circumstantial evidence, we have a very good idea who the guilty person is. We know the law says no person is to shoot a fire arm in the city limits unless he is authorized by law. It's too bad the law has been unable to get proof enough to convict this man in order to prevent other pets or humans from being shot.

I don't see how any person could do such a thing! Perhaps if this guilty person could have seen how a little boy cried when he saw his pet dog bleeding—

Yours truly,
Mrs. Henning Peterson.
Dear Mrs. Peterson: The Bugler once had a little brown and black terrier that lived through more misfortune than most dogs. We named it Tricks. First it was the victim of a pois-

25 Years Ago—1918

London — Returning officers from Germany say no reconstruction has been undertaken in Germany, and that the feeling of the Germans is to convince the United States that Armistice terms must be amended and "the wind tempered to the shorn lamb."

George W. Rowell, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the U. P. Development bureau, is to resign within a few days. Directors of the bureau are to meet in Escanaba Tuesday to select his successor.

Dr. A. J. Carlton, city health officer, yesterday pointed out that the threat from the influenza epidemic is far from over. A total of 10 new cases were reported yesterday.

oner. In the intervals between deathlike spasms, Tricks would wag his tail feebly, lick the hands that held him. Recovered, the little dog met new tragedy. He was shot through the head. A small caliber bullet penetrated his left eye and went out his jaw.

This, too, he survived, but afterward he had a crooked grin and a cheerfully leering, but blind, brown eye. He lived to be 15 years old and died of canine old age, never once losing his trust in mankind. Here's hoping that Brownie comes through. Let The Bugler know, will you?

The Bugler

CARTOONIST—Many Escanaba, Manistiquette and Munising folks will remember Joe Artree, now Mike Joseph Gregory Artree of the Seabees, stationed in Trinidad.

The Bugler has from Joe a copy of the first issue of the "Island Press," official publication of the 83rd U. S. Naval Construction Battalion. And surprise of surprises—Joe is on the staff—as a cartoonist!

Two samples of Joe's work with pen and ink are shown: 1—"Never a Dull Moment," depicting brass hats planning to build an air field as soon as they have landed; and 2—"Confucius Bassford, Seabee," a uniformed pluggily described as "the typical Seabee."

The "Island Press" introduces Joe in this way:

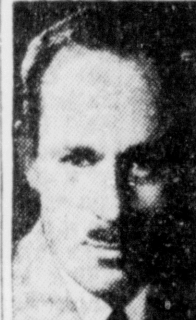

"Joe was formerly with the 14th Battalion and came to us from Ships Company, Gulfport, Mississippi. He is already known to us as 'Mighty Fine' or 'Citizen Joe' and puts his personal good humor on paper by injecting himself into many of his cartoons. His creations of humor are in no way meant to calumniate individuals, since his drawings could fit any time or place, and all departments will soon be depicted."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Don't take those "Bricker-for-President" breezes from Capitol Hill too seriously. Senate and House members from Ohio have come out unanimously for the Ohio governor—but inside fact is that they would prefer to see Senator

Pearson

Bob Taft emerge as the GOP White House nominee.

Further inside fact is that Taft hasn't completely eliminated himself as a Presidential hopeful, though it was Taft—and none other—who convinced Bricker that he should throw his hat in the Presidential ring even after Bricker had made up his mind to run for a fourth term as Governor of Ohio.

This eased out, in part, at a secret meeting of Ohio Senators and Congressmen which endorsed Bricker unanimously for the Presidency. While everybody was giving lip service to Bricker, it was quite apparent that their hearts belonged to Taft.

Hardly had the "unanimous" meeting for Bricker begun, when Representative Ed Rowe of Ohio declared that he doubted that Bricker could beat Wendell Willkie in the Akron area. Willkie had got in a lot of spade work in this section, Rowe said, and had some potent backing, including that of Robert Weaver, a Cleveland manufacturer.

Representative Frances Bolton of Ohio, one of the wealthiest members of Congress, demurred that Miss Marion Martin, chief of the women's division of the Republican National Committee, had "turned against" Willkie and that Willkie could therefore expect little support from GOP women voters in 1944.

This was quickly challenged on the ground that Miss Martin was a political ally of Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, treasurer of the Republican National Committee and a strong Willkie booster. However, Mrs. Bolton insisted that Miss Martin had been "talking against" Willkie.

It was brought out that Representative Carroll Reece of Tennessee, a Republican, likely would manage Bricker's campaign and could assure the Ohio governor the support of most of the Southern delegates at the GOP convention.

This raised Bricker's stock a little, but most of the Ohio Congressmen still are secretly for Taft, though they cast a unanimous vote for Bricker at the caucus.

—AMERICAN PRISONERS—

American prisoners in Germany seem to be receiving good treatment, if letters which kindly ex-Senator Clyde Herring of Iowa gets from his son are any criterion.

Senator Herring, whose boy was captured in Tunisia (and who had a second son die just as he was entering the Army), reports that American prisoners are reasonably well-fed, receive their mail regularly. Young Herring has received all the packages sent by his father, and recently the camp got 150 harmonicas sent by the YMCA. He reported that the resultant noise was likely to drive the German guards away from camp.

American and British prisoners, formerly together, have now been segregated, for reasons best known to the Nazis. Prison camps were moved north some time ago, apparently because the Germans feared a U. S.-British second front from the south. But now, with the camps in the north, the Germans face a much more imminent Russian invasion from that direction.

—SYNTHETIC TIRES—

Early next year, the American public will get its first real test of synthetic tires. These will not be passenger, but bus and truck tires, which will begin to come out of tire factories some time in January.

They will be hurried to the wheels of buses and trucks, now limping along on sharply reduced rations. Even in September, the allocation of 550,000 civilian bus and truck tires was inadequate. But now the figure has been reduced still further to 335,000 for November and December.

Operators of trucks and buses are worried about the new tires, knowing that early tests have shown they do not stand up under heavy loads. This in spite of the fact that they are only 70 percent synthetic, with an admixture of 30 percent natural rubber.

Result will be that truck and bus loads will have to be reduced all over the country. Since they are already operating above normal capacity, reduction of loads will mean reduction in the total performance of trucks and buses.

Of course, the synthetics may prove to be better than tests have shown, but the trucking industry has its fingers crossed.

—BULL'S-EYE BALLOONS—

Behind the War Department's removal of those barrage balloons from war production areas in Los Angeles and Seattle was the big stick of the Truman Committee. The story involves one of the prize bonhead plays of the home front, which would have made juicy reading had the committee unveiled the facts.

The Army had gone to considerable expense camouflaging industrial areas in Los Angeles and Seattle. Then it nullified the effect by putting barrage balloons over them. The balloons were arranged in a big circle over shipyards, aircraft factories and other war plants, virtually forming a bull's-eye mark for any intrepid Japanese aviator who might have come on a suicide raid.

When the Truman Committee investigated, it was all set to reveal the facts in a report. However, War Department officials asked not to be made to appear in an unfavorable light and finally removed the balloons.

It's strange how a lie can travel so fast when it hasn't a leg to stand on.

Just a few weeks till Christmas and all through the house—hidden packages!

In Three Centuries...

Through Three Crises...

America's System of Free Enterprise Returned the Nation to Greater Prosperity than ever

What America has done once, America can do again. For over 300 years, before and after we became an independent nation, through three major and countless smaller crises, the American system of free enterprise has won its way. Each time it has afterward brought the American people to still greater heights of prosperity.

THIS is the system of free business and free labor that has made America today the war production center for the world—and after victory America will be the peacetime industrial center of the world, leading the people of all nations to a happier and fuller life—the American way of life!

THIS is the system we MUST preserve. It can—and will—meet the problems of the post-war period. And once again the system of American free enterprise will carry this country to still higher pinnacles of greatness.

Look Americans! Since the beginning of time, the only road to prosperity has been P-R-O-D-U-C-T-I-O-N and exchange of goods and services at a profit—the American system of labor and business.

From it you have earned personal benefits—your home towns have enjoyed increasing advantages—and your nation has become the richest on earth.

THE AMERICAN SYSTEM HAS CREATED THESE TANGIBLE THINGS FOR YOU:

—the highest standard of living in the world;
—the accumulation of personal savings and worldly possessions—your schools, your highways, your buildings—your life insurance, your home, your automobile.
—money to pay the cost of government, local,

state and national, including the payment of governmental debt;

And with it, you have the right to think, to speak and to worship as you choose—rights forbidden to millions not living under the free American system.

On Being A Real Person

By Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick

Great Personalities Generally Have Been Inwardly Tortured

The use of words such as "singleness," "poise," "unity," "compactness," and "serenity" to describe a well-integrated life, may suggest a placid life, with all conflicts resolved, but such a picture of powerful and admirable personality is plainly false. The great souls have been inwardly tortured.

Wagner was, for the most part, no more serene than a stormy sea. Carlyle suffered such inner mutiny while trying to finish his history of the French Revolution that he said to his wife: "They may twaddle as they like about the miseries of a bad conscience; but I should like to know whether Judas Iscariot was more miserable than Thomas Carlyle who never did anything criminal, so far as he remembered!"

Florence Nightingale had a desperate time finding herself, and wrote in her diary: "In my thirty-first year I see nothing desirable but death." Dwight L. Moody said, "I've had more trouble with D. L. Moody than with any other man I know." Beethoven went through perdition with his unruly emotions, and when at last deafness closed in on him his inner struggle is only imperfectly voiced in his exclamation: "If I were only rid of this affliction I could embrace the world! . . . No! I cannot endure it! I will seize fate by the throat! Most assuredly, it shall not get me wholly down."

As for the saints, they all understand Paul, "The good which I would I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I practice. . . . Wretched man that I am!"

If integration is the high road we have said it is, it cannot mean mere tranquillity, where conflict ceases in an equable and steady calm, but must somehow include the range of fact that such tortured souls reveal. Who of us does not understand the conversation in James M. Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy"? "But you must decide!" Gritz almost screamed. "I needna," he stammered, "till we're at Tilledrum. Let's speak about some other thing." She rocked her arms crying, "It is so easy to make up one's mind. It's easy to you that has just one mind," he retorted with spirit, "but if you had as many minds as I have—!"

The key to the solution of this problem lies in the fact that all integration is hierarchical. It involves the domination of some traits and purposes over others, and, like any government, it seldom, if ever, is so consummated as to quiet all dissent. It involves not only the harmonizing of conflicts but also the subjugation of revolts. It involves a scale of values, with some supreme value, or complex of associated values, so organizing life that one gladly foregoes lesser aims, and resists contradictory enticements, rather than sacrifice life's chief aim and highest worth. Moreover, it entails not alone the resolving of conflicts, but, when that is impossible, the toleration of conflicts, the candid, objective, sometimes humorous recognition of them, coupled with steady resolution to put first values first.

BOMBING OF FORMOSA

The bombing of Formosa has brought to my mind the FIRST real white resident of that great island. Sixty five years ago a missionary by the name of Rev. G. L. McKay returned for a visit from Formosa and gave us a real talk regarding that faraway land. It was in the church where the father of Mrs. Miller, mother of Dr. H. D. Miller who cared for the dental work of the school children of Delta county.

McKay was stationed on the island and lived in a little leanto and the natives regarded him as a

Christmas Club Checks Will Be Mailed Out Soon

Escanaba's three banks will begin the distribution of Christmas club checks within a few days. This year's melon amounts to $88,647.67, as compared with $84,000 last year, Escanaba banks report.

Despite payroll deductions for war bond purchases, the tremendous rise in savings accounts, and so forth, the 4,800 banking institutions and other organizations throughout the country will distribute over $420,000,000 this year to some 7,500,000 Christmas club members, or a sum about two per cent more than a year ago.

According to a recent cross-section survey, recipients intend to use 28 per cent of the distributions for Christmas purchases; 24 per cent for permanent savings; and 17 per cent for war bonds. Tax payments will absorb 11 per cent, insurance premiums will eat up 10 per cent, and 9 per cent will go to pay debts.

devil and tried to get up courage to kill him. One day they formed a line at a certain place and waited for him to pass. He came along and saw that a large native stood ready to cut off his head with a huge sword. Of course the natives thought McKay would run away but he walked right ahead and the big fellow was so surprised that he could do nothing. In fact he was so surprised at the action of the reverend that after thinking over the matter for some time he came to the meeting and wanted to join in with the minister and he became a great missionary. By the time the missionary came to St. Thomas, Ont., he had established 26 preaching stations. He married a nice looking Chinese lady and she was a great help in the work. Rev. McKay returned to Formosa and died there some years ago.

MANISTIQUE

Highway Dept. Here Is Ready For Bad Weather

Old Man Winter can start dishing out his annual fare of dirty weather any time now, and he'll find the state highway maintenance division in Schoeller district open 24 hours per day throughout the year.

Behind the scenes is a carefully organized plan of action to take care of the 146 miles of highway in this area in any winter weather. The set up looks something like this: Two garages or headquarters supervised by Norman Nelson. At Manistique, with Lawrence DeVine as foreman, is the main headquarters garage staffed by 25 employees. Here are five 5-ton trucks suitable for V-plow or one way plow and a scraper blade; 5 light trucks with one-way plows; one Sno-go; one cat power grader with scraper blade and bank buster.

Over at Seney is another garage headquarters with Francis Morrison as foreman. This garage has three 5-ton trucks with plows, etc., two light trucks with one-way plows; one cat tractor with Rotary plow. Fourteen men are employed at the Seney garage.

With this equipment and trained manpower the state highway department is prepared to take in its stride whatever turns up this winter in the way of bad weather. And its aim is to maintain roads for wheel traffic on a 24 hour basis. On US-2 the local garage must maintain 16 miles west to the Garden corner; and 30 miles east to Bryan, near Gould City. From Manistique the plows will go north on M-94 to Shingleton, and swing out on M-149 to the Big Spring. Seney plows will go west on M-28 to Shingleton, north on M-77 to a point half way to Grand Marais, and south on N-77 to B'any.

It is recalled that the stretch of highway north of Seney toward Grand Marais is perhaps one of the biggest headaches in the state for plow drivers. A few years ago Grand Marais was snow bound for a time, the drifts being so high that several days were required for plows to work through them.

Perhaps one of the keys to the success of the Schoeller highway maintenance is the unique night patrol that goes quietly about the county night after night looking for trouble. On the alert for drifting snow or slippery curves and hills, the night patrol immediately telephones the garage when he finds a condition that might be hazardous to the motorist. Garages are manned 24 hours per day, and as soon as a call comes in the caretaker rous a crew out of bed and dispatches them to the scene of the trouble. This type of service not only "nips the trouble in the bud", but it is an excellent form of accident prevention, state officials believe.

Another service of the garages is the information available to motorists. Anyone wishing information of conditions of highways, or state ferry schedules, is invited to call the garage at any time of the day or night, the foremen state.

The war has been a handicap to many organizations, but to date it apparently has not affected state highway road maintenance in Schoeller county. The same excellent service will continue this winter, it was promised.

The official list, appearing on page 411 of official proceedings of the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the International Association of Lions Clubs, held on July 20-22, 1943, at Cleveland, Ohio, follows. It includes activities from July 1942 to July 1943.

POLICE HAVE YOUTH PROBLEM

Much Delinquency Here In Past Few Days Police Report

Juvenile delinquency took another splurge in Manistique in recent days, according to state and city police.

The case of the missing fourteen silver dollars was paramount in the youthful mis-conduct. Two local boys, one 14 and one 15, were apprehended by state police Sunday night after they went on a spending spree in local business places. They admitted stealing the fourteen silver dollars, some other money, and some shot gun shells from Albert Sibelink of Thompson last week. The boys were visiting Mr. Sibelink and noticed where he kept his money, police said. When the opportunity arose, they took his money bag and left. They were apprehended after police noticed their promiscuous spending of money. They were taken to the police station in Juvenile court here.

Another 16 year old boy missed being turned over to Juvenile authorities only after his father asked for "one more chance to try and make a man out of him." He indicated to city police that the old-fashioned wood shed method would be used. The boy has been a constant trouble maker, police said, and Sunday at 9 p. m. he was involved in a fist fight on Cedar street.

City police also apprehended a 14 year old youth for stealing a automobile part from the Ford garage. The item was returned and no charges were placed against the offender.

Two others were caught shooting street lights in an alley with a BB gun. The owner of the gun was brought into Juvenile court Friday, and his father paid $10 fine. The other lad was to appear in Juvenile court on the same charge this week.

YOU'VE GOT TO BE GOOD . . .

You'll be up there in good company when you fly with the A.A.F.

You'll be on the same team with fighters who knocked out the Luftwaffe over Salerno . . . with bombing crews that blasted Schweinfurt and blew Ploesti off the map . . . with hunters who tracked a Jap fleet to the Bismarck Sea, and bagged every ship that flew the red-ball flag.

You'll be up there in the "big leagues" . . . and to make it, you've got to be good . . . and that puts it up to you!

If you think you've got what it takes to fly . . . if you're willing to work long hours, on the ground as well as "upstairs" . . .

Then maybe you, too, can win your wings as Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot . . .

And fly and fight with the A.A.F. . . . the greatest team in the world!

MEN OF 17 . . . Go to the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board; see if you can qualify to join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you qualify, you will receive the Enlisted Reserve insignia . . . but will not be called for training until you are 18 or over.

Begin now to prepare yourself, mentally and physically, to be a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot in the A.A.F. Bone up on math, physics, history, geography . . . all important subjects for a member of the Air Forces. Above all, study hard . . . and keep your mind alert. For the A.A.F. wants your training as an Aviation Cadet to be second to none in the world . . . so that when you win your wings, you'll be the toughest and smartest flyer who ever burned up the sky!

Toughen your body, too. For, as a member of a bomber crew or a fighter pilot, other men will depend on your "staying power," and you will depend on theirs. Meanwhile, see your local Civil Air Patrol officers about taking C.A.P. Cadet training—also see your High School Principal or Adviser about the recommended courses of the Air Service Division of the U. S. Victory Corps. Both afford valuable pre-aviation training.

TO WIN YOUR SILVER WINGS . . .

You'll start your A.A.F. training in one of America's leading colleges (after a brief conditioning period). Here, in 5 months, you will be given the equivalent of a year of college training. From the College Training Detachment you will go on to 8 months of full flight training.

When you win your wings as a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot, you will get an extra $250 uniform allowance . . . and your pay will be $246 to $327 a month.

And after the war you will be qualified for leadership in the world's greatest new industry—Aviation! See your nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board—or the commanding officer of the College Training Detachment nearest you—for complete details.

NAB THREE ON DEER CHARGE

Officers Arrest Hunters
In Game Check Near Cornell

State troopers of the Gladstone Post assisted conservation officers in a game census at Cornell which resulted in the arrest of three Escanabans Sunday afternoon.

Arrested were Dr. C. J. Corcoran, Gordon Corcoran and Abe Houle.

They are to be charged with possession and transportation of venison from the carcass of a deer the sex identity of which has been obliterated.

It is alleged by officers that two quarters of a deer were thrown from the auto in which the trio were riding before it came up to the point on the highway where officers were making the game check.

However, an officer stationed beside the road some distance ahead of the checking station, saw the meat thrown and advised the other officers.

The quarters were wrapped in newspaper.

Arraignment of the trio in justice court in Escanaba is scheduled for this morning.

CAGE SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

St. Joseph Parochials
Opponents On Local Court

Gladstone high school eagles will swing into action Friday night when they play the St. Joseph parochials of Escanaba on the local court.

Practice sessions started several weeks ago with a large squad reporting. This has now been cut to ten men for the first string.

This squad includes four lettermen, two of whom were regulars, around which to build. The regulars of last year are Capt. Jack Ridings, guard who is being transformed into a center, and Lawrence Young, forward. The other lettermen are Jimmy Paine, forward, and Jack Burroughs, guard.

Others on the first string squad are Ray Kinziger, Frank Schiese, Arthur Legault, Jack Sigan, Francis Cannon and John Strickland.

The team is shaping up nicely and it begins to look like it will be a pretty fair aggregation. It will be small but members are quite fast and good ball handlers. However, their mentor, Coach Eldon Keil, stresses the fact that they will have to make up in speed and fight what they lack in size.

This week he is also starting a sophomore squad and will make an effort to arrange some second team games for them in order to build for another year.

Nearly all members of this year's squad are seniors and it is probable that the few juniors on the squad will be called into service before the next season rolls around, so building from sophomore material will be necessary.

Eskymos Stave Off Trojan Rally To Win Cage Opener, 32 To 26

SCORING LED BY RANGUETTE

Escanaba Center Counts 21 Points In Splurge Of Buckets

The Eskymos opened their basketball schedule with a 32-26 victory over St. Joseph at the junior high school gymnasium last night, but not before the Trojans made a determined fourth period rally that turned the tide of battle from a near rout to a close contest that wasn't settled until the final seconds of play.

Ranguette, veteran Eskymo center and one of the high scorers of the peninsula last season, made an auspicious debut last night by personally accounting for 21 points on eight field goals and five free throws.

The Trojans matched the Eskymos in the opening quarter and held a 7-6 lead at the end of the period, but the Rawitchmen regained the lead at the start of the second quarter. They were never headed again, although the Parochials threatened to close the gap in the closing minutes of play. Escanaba led at half time, 14 to 9.

It was in the third quarter that the game threatened to develop into a lopsided proposition. The Eskymos, gaining steam as the game progressed, scored 12 points to only five by the Trojans and Escanaba led at the three-quarter mark 26 to 14.

In the final period, St. Joseph rallied gallantly and outplayed the Eskymos. They gradually narrowed the gap to 31-25 with a minute remaining to play. Each team scored a free throw in the time remaining.

St. Joseph scoring was well distributed among eight players in contrast to the Eskymo scoring which was dominated by Ranguette and Kidd, the latter posting six points.

The Coast Guards lost to the City Recreation team in the preliminary.

Manistique, Nov. 30—Coach Thor Reque has paired a sixty man squad down to ten basketball players and the pressure is on for the Emeralds' opener at Sault Ste. Marie Friday night.

Building around a nucleus of four lettermen back from last years team, including Berker, Curley, Patz and Holm, Reque has developed an aggregation that is expected to hold its own in class B competition this year. His other six regulars, from whom he must select part of his opening line up, include Hough, Nelson, Coyrney, Hayden, Swanson and Buckley. He will also have the services of Schuster, who is out with an injured ankle at the present time.

Ten others were selected from the original squad of 60 players and will represent Manistique high school in reserve games.

Daily and strenuous drills have been on the docket for the Reque-men during the past three weeks. As a result the team is beginning to shape up, and although it is too early for predictions there is little doubt but what the team will cop its share of the honors this season.

Their first game, however, is expected to be one of the toughest on the schedule. The powerful Sault Blue Devils are reported to be back at full strength this year, using a veteran line up. The Sault this year has only one new recruit.

Bob Carpenter, the new president of the Phillies, successor to Bill Cox who was barred from baseball by Judge Landis, has promised that he will let Manager Freddie Fitzsimmons run the team in 1944 and that he will make no attempt to operate the club from the front office. "If Fitzsimmons finds me in the clubhouse, he has my permission to boot me out," Carpenter said.

Moreover, the Phillies will get no commando course in calisthenics at spring training in 1944. With the comment that "I don't think we'll have a track team next year," Carpenter announced that Dr. Harold Bruce would be dropped from the payroll. Cox hired Dr. Bruce last season to head up the physical training program for the Phils.

The poll taken by this department on the upper peninsula football championship playoff issue leaves no doubt that any efforts to put upper peninsula football into the same category as upper peninsula basketball insofar as selecting the undisputed No. 1 team is considered are bound to fail as long as school principals feel as they do on this issue. The coaches, the fans, and the sundry others may unite in support of an upper peninsula championship playoff but it will never get anywhere. The answer then is to use the Dickinson rating system to determine the peninsula's football championship.

For some reason not immediately apparent, the baseball leaders are much more optimistic concerning the 1944 baseball season than they were a year ago regarding the 1943 season. Considerably more baseball players are being inducted into the armed forces now than a year ago, principally because of the drafting of fathers, but baseball leaders who viewed with alarm last winter are now confident that baseball not only will continue in 1944, but actually will expand, with many of the minor leagues resuming play.

Cornie Back is among those who have changed their minds on this important question. A year ago the Athletics manager was dropped from the payroll. Cox hired Dr. Bruce last season to head up the physical training program for the Phils.

The poll taken by this department on the upper peninsula football championship playoff issue leaves no doubt that any efforts to put upper peninsula football into the same category as upper peninsula basketball insofar as selecting the undisputed No. 1 team is considered are bound to fail as long as school principals feel as they do on this issue. The coaches, the fans, and the sundry others may unite in support of an upper peninsula championship playoff but it will never get anywhere. The answer then is to use the Dickinson rating system to determine the peninsula's football championship.

Old Prof Presides At Closing Session

By Whitney Martin

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Old Professor was thumbing through a book of quotations as his Monday morning class of football coaches filed in for the final session of the year.

Old Professor—What is that one, something about "ships that pass in the night," anyway?

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame—I don't know anything about ships that pass in the night, but a can tell you plenty about football teams that pass in the last minute of play. Anyway, I'm just as proud of our boys as if they had won from Great Lakes. I never saw players fight their hearts out like those kids. I feel we lost to a better team.

Lieut. Tony Hinkle, Great Lakes—I think our team was under rated all year. Even though Notre Dame proved to be the toughest team we've played, I thought all along we might be able to gain ground against it. Well, after we broke a few players through their line in the first half, I told the boys we could keep going and turn the trick.

Old Professor—and quite a trick, I might add. Anything to say Captain Welch?

Capt. John Welch, Navy—What else is there to say? Didn't I talk myself out before the Army game?

Old Professor—Hm. We won't go into that. Maybe Colonel Blak can give us a few words.

Lieut. Col. Earl Blak, Army—Our boys played a wonderful game for 40 minutes. Then the strength of the Navy wore us down. When we were moving the ball in the first half we couldn't score owing to our ball-handling mistakes and penalties.

Frank Murray, Virginia—Speaking of power, Professor, my boys were simply overpowered by a vastly superior team. I am proud of the way they stayed in and fought. George Grimes, who played for me last year, looked just as good against me.

Tom Young, North Carolina—I never expected my boys to bounce back in such grand style after that game with Duke a week ago. Frank's charges certainly deserve a lot of credit for the spirit they showed. I was especially impressed by their southpaw passer, Lucien Burnett.

Old Professor—Dr. Hauser, what is meant by the expression "pro and con?"

Dr. George Hauser, Minnesota—Can't tell you about the cons, Professor, but when you send a bunch of kids like ours up against a group of pros, and college graduates, heavy in experience, something is just bound to happen to you and the result was much as we expected. My boys played a good game against the Iowa Navy men but the odds were by far too much against them.

Lieut. Don Faurst, Iowa Seahawks—I thought Minnesota put up a mighty fine battle, especially in the first half. We were glad to win this one because I really was afraid of the Gophers. That Notre Dame game a week ago took a lot out of us, you know.

Old Professor—And apparently took a lot out of Notre Dame, too. Mr. Alexander, what happens when you gamble?

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech—Well, when the other team gambles in its efforts to score it's liable to give us some extra points, as Georgia did. We didn't intend to let the Bulldogs score. Little Cook looked mighty good today and I hope Wally can keep him next year, as Georgia deserves a lot of credit for fielding a team this year.

Wally Butts, Georgia—We did the best we could, but we were helpless. They sure let us have it out there. I wish I could have Cook back next year, but he'll be 18 after Christmas.

Old Professor—Well, I see our lar player—Frank Miller who showed his wares for Newberry last winter. Miller is said to be working in smoothly at a regular guard position.

Two home games before the holidays also face the Emeralds. Gladstone will be here on the 10th, and Negaunee comes here on the 17th.

attendance is pretty slim today, and there is no use of keeping you any longer. I'll mail your diplomas to you. Had them all filled out and the Navy got thought they were an appetizer. I trust I will see you gentlemen next fall. Meanwhile, good bye and good luck.

It's smarter than you think to smoke Marvels!

Rumors Flying Thick At Baseball Meeting

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—There are no potted palms in the hotel lobby where the winter baseball meetings started today but all kinds of rumors were running around anyway—and the hottest tip was that William G. Bramham is going to have a fight to remain boss of the Minor leagues.

Although the magnates found few hiding places in the absence of the usually handy palms, the report was that organized opposition has developed among the

Eagles Score Upset In Pro League; Bears Trim Cardinals

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—In an upset as unexpected at Notre Dame's defeat on Saturday, the Phil-Pitt Eagles today walloped the Washington Redskins, 27 to 14, in the National Professional Football League.

A capacity crowd of 35,826 at Washington saw the Eagles' smother Sammy Baugh's attempts at passing in much the same manner as the Redskins smothered Sid Luckman a week ago when they upset the Chicago Bears, 21 to 7.

Triple Deadlock Possible

The victory, first for the Eagles over the Redskins since 1937, kept alive the pennant chances of both the Eagles and the New York Giants in the eastern division. The Giants play the Redskins twice on successive Sundays. If they win both games, and the Eagles beat Green Bay next Sunday, the eastern race will end in a triple tie.

While the Eagles upset the Redskins the Chicago Bears put on a three-touchdown rally in the last period to beat the Chicago Cardinals, 35 to 24, and win the western division title. Luckman threw four touchdown passes to set a new record of 28 scoring passes in one season. He had tied Cecil Iselle's old mark of 24 last week.

The Eagles, who previously had tied the Redskins, 14-14, at Philadelphia, displayed a crushing ground attack. They piled up 158 yards by rushing to 58, with Bob Thurbon, former Pitt halfback from Erie, Pa., scoring two touchdowns.

The Giants had easy sailing against Brooklyn, beating the Dodgers, 24-7. The Green Bay Packers galloped the New London, Conn. Diesels, 62-14, in an exhibition game at Bristol, Conn.

DRAFT NOTICES ARE SENT OUT

Selectees Will Be Sent To Marquette On December 9

Induction notices to draft registrants selected for the December draft call were mailed yesterday by the local draft board. The selectees will report at the city hall at 11 a. m. on Thursday, Dec. 9 and will leave for Marquette at noon, following dinner at the Sherman Hotel. The men who pass the physical examinations will be inducted into the army or the navy on Friday, Dec. 10.

The Delta county board was assigned an exceptionally large quota for December but the call can only be partially met, it was indicated yesterday. Delays prompted by the procrastination of congress in the drafting of pre-war fathers resulted in the processing of only about half of the required number of men to fill the assigned quota. Nevertheless, the number of men who will be sent to Marquette in December will be greater than the number of men sent for induction in November.

In accordance with instructions received from state selective service headquarters, the local draft board is now requiring all new registrants to submit birth certificates or other satisfactory proof of their birth dates. A checkup of draft files has indicated that several underage youths have falsely registered as age 18.

Birth certificates or other evidence of birth date need not be left with the local board, but copies will be made by board clerks and the copies will become a part of the registrant's file.

To Have Hearing On Check Charge

Examination in the case of Lucille Maisonneuve, 24, of Escanaba, charged with cashing a $75 worthless check Saturday at the National Food Store, will be held at 2 p. m., December 3, in Justice Henry Ranguette's court. She is held in jail in default of $500 bond following arraignment yesterday.

The woman's arrest Saturday was the second on a charge of cashing worthless checks. Previously she was returned to Escanaba from Milwaukee charged with cashing a worthless check at the Hewett Grocery company. The charge was dismissed when restitution was made.

Help him get a line to home

ABOUT the only time he can get to the telephone is a few short hours in the evening. That's when thousands of other boys in the camps want to use long distance, too.

Any time you are not on the lines, there's a better chance for a soldier's call to get through.

So unless it's urgent, we hope you won't be using long distance from 7 to 10 o'clock at night. Save those hours for the service men.
